Take part in one of New York's most beloved winter traditions as you enter an enchanting world of miniature trains!

Model trains zip through a display of 150 landmarks, each re-created with bark, leaves, and other natural materials—all under the twinkling glow of the Enid A. Haupt Conservatory. Marvel at G-scale locomotives humming along among familiar sights such as the Brooklyn Bridge, Statue of Liberty, and Rockefeller Center on nearly a half-mile of track.

This year's exhibition showcases Midtown Manhattan, with iconic skyscrapers and other architectural wonders sharing the spotlight among old and new collection favorites that define this celebrated district.

*After visiting the exhibit, the bus will depart for Arthur Ave.
("Little Italy" in the Bronx!)
Venture out on your own for lunch and shopping at the great Italian markets.*
