JERRY WELDON

Internationally renowned veteran sax man Jerry Weldon is a “musician’s musician” and a first class showman. He blows his horn with his entire body and delights audiences with his all-in, soulful playing. Jerry joined the Lionel Hampton Orchestra after graduating from Rutgers Jazz Studies Program in 1981. A charter member and featured soloist with Harry Connick’s band in 1990, Jerry still performs with the house band on Connick’s television variety show. Over his more than 35 year career, Jerry has worked with jazz giants George Benson, Jimmy Cobb, George Cables, Cedar Walton, Roy Haynes, Mel Torme, Dr. Lonnie Smith, and Joey DeFrancesco among many others.
